1 PROCEEDINGS

2

3 (Whereupon, the proceedings began at 8:50 a.m., on 4 Thursday, October 20, 2005, in Judge's Chambers.)

5

6 THE COURT: Go ahead.

7 MR. DELANEY: First of all, I apologize for this 8 being so late. But I raised the issue yesterday about whether 9 the burden is on defendants show that the conduct of the 10 shipper as the sole cause. I found two Third Circuit cases 11 that say just that. They are Paper_Magic in 2003, and 12 Beta_Spawn -- I believe I've marked the pages.

13 THE COURT: Go ahead.

14 MR. DELANEY: What I think this means is you don't 15 charge on substantial factor. You just have to say the burden 16 is on them to show that the damage arose solely or entirely 17 because of the conduct of the plaintiff.

18 THE COURT: With that, I glanced at the Third
19 Circuit cases, you might want to let defense counsel see them.
20 They apparently stand for that proposition. But with that 21 having been said, why don't you all take a few minutes just to 22 read, re-look through the charge, I think the most significant 23 changes would be on the first five pages, then take a look at 24 the verdict slip. When you're done doing that, I'll chat with 25 you a little bit.

3

1 (Recess from 8:54 a.m.; until 9:01 a.m.)

2 THE COURT: Let's first talk, before you folks bring 3 up anything you want to, let's first talk about the charge 4 insofar as it relates to the question of causation. Either be 5 sole or substantial. Have the defendants had a chance to look 6 at those cases?

7 MR. KNOX: Very briefly.

8 MR. COHEN: I looked at the cases briefly, I was 9 just looking through the Carmack Amendment.

10 THE COURT: Does it speak to this issue?

11 MR. COHEN: I'm scanning it now.

12 MR. KNOX: Causation, your Honor, I believe is 13 referenced in subsection(a)(1) of 14706, in terms of sources of 14 cause to damage. Where it talks about property caused by the 15 receiving carrier, the delivering carrier or another carrier
16 over whose route the property is transported. It doesn't 17 really flush it out anymore than that, though.

18 THE COURT: Apparently, to the extent it's been 19 flushed out, it's a creature of case law. In any event, what I 20 need to know, in light of the teachings of those two Third 21 Circuit cases, do the defendants have a position on how the 22 jury should be charged in that regard?

23 MR. KNOX: Certainly we prefer not to have that 24 charge, the cases stand for the proposition as they do. I 25 don't see anything in the Carmack Amendment that diverges from 1 that. It's very general in the statute.

2 MR. COHEN: Your Honor, unfortunately, this is being 3 brought up at the last minute, I haven't had an opportunity, I
4 didn't bring any case law, I didn't know it was an issue. I 5 haven't had an opportunity to evaluate this issue. But these 6 cases do say what they say.

7 THE COURT: All right. Since I'm living in the 8 Third Circuit, I generally try to do what the Third Circuit
9 tells me. I'm going to charge on sole cause, but because it 10 appears to be consistent with the cases that were cited. The 11 floor is open for any other issues.

12 MR. DELANEY: Judge, I don't think you have to 13 change the interrogatories very much, other than number three.
14 Instead of saying was the lack of proper packaging a 15 substantial factor --

16 THE COURT: Insert sole cause.

17 MR. DELANEY: Was the sole factor in causing the 18 damage to the cargo.

19 THE COURT: I think it's correct. The 20 interrogatories, you will note, although we charge on 21 negligence and explain to the jury what negligence is, there is 22 no separate interrogatory in there relative to negligence.

23 MR. DELANEY: I'm not asking for one, either. Mr.
24 Knox is right, the case law in flushing this out says their 25 burden is to show the lack of negligence and the sole cause on

5

1 the part of the damage being the act of the shipper. That may 2 be a bit redundant.

3 THE COURT: In this case because where the defense 4 is, is that the shipper itself did something, you either win or 5 lose on that prong, it seems to me.

6 MR. KNOX: I think that it is true. Obviously, from 7 Accu-Spec's point of view, packaging is the whole shooting 8 match for them, if they win on that issue, they win against us.
9 But from a defense standpoint, I think it matters because I 10 think the jury again will have to say okay, has this defendant
11 met prong one and prong two. Has this defendant met prong one 12 and prong two. I think we can meet prong one and arguably 13 prong two. I don't know if they can meet prong one.

14 THE COURT: I still don't understand what you're 15 saying, John.

16 MR. KNOX: Because it's possible, even though the 17 jury agrees --

18 MR. KNOX: Negligence entails causation, I think in 19 the way the cases are talking about. If they prove this is 20 solely our fault, if there is negligence in the air and it's 21 unrelated to this damage, it wouldn't be related, it wouldn't 22 help me.

23 MR. COHEN: I think negligence is out as well. I 24 think that it's clear with respect to when it just says the 25 X-ray equipment was packaged improperly, I don't think you need

6

1 that negligence clause in there.

2 THE COURT: Negligence in where?

3 MR. COHEN: In page three.

4 THE COURT: Just take it out?

5 MR. COHEN: I'd just take it out.

6 THE COURT: Really it's a causation case. I mean
7 you got to get both if you can. If you can't nail the shipper, 8 everybody agrees to that, we'll take out the negligence.

9 MR. KNOX: I'd like to keep it in, obviously, I 10 mentioned it in my closing. That was my understanding, it was 11 going to be in there.

12 THE COURT: I just don't see how it factually fits,
13 given the way the case came in. So even though and, frankly, 14 this is just as an aside. The two part requirement of an 15 affirmative defense, showing you weren't negligent and 16 something else was the causative agent, is probably legally 17 redundant to a certain extent. But be that as it may, I'm 18 going to take it out.

19 MR. DELANEY: You're going to take out the top 20 paragraph of four, which is the substantial factor explanation?

21 THE COURT: It's going to be one sentence. Must be 22 the sole factor. Do you have something else?

23 MR. COHEN: Yes, your Honor, one small item on 24 paragraph three. At the beginning it says once Accu-Spec, the 25 shipper, establishes that the equipment was given -- I would

1 just ask that it say if Accu-Spec, the shipper, establishes.

2 THE COURT: I'll change that, that's a fair point.

3 MR. COHEN: The other small item is in the third,
4 says third, Accu-Spec, the shipper, must establish the amount

5 of money damages. I would ask the word reasonable be put in 6 there to be consistent with the law.

7 THE COURT: That's fair enough.

8 MR. COHEN: Lastly, your Honor, with all due
9 respect, only to preserve the record, we'd ask that our jury
10 instructions as presented in our pleadings be used. We do 11 object to this jury instruction and we do object to the 12 interrogatories to the jury instruction. And move that our 13 jury interrogatories as presented be used for the jury in the 14 case.

15 THE COURT: Do you have those handy with you -- 16 where is your jury interrogatories?

17 MR. COHEN: They're at page 28, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Your request is noted, of course 19 it's preserved for the record.

20 MR. KNOX: Similarly, judge, we lodge, just for the 21 record, a similar objection.

22 THE COURT: You want your interrogatories?

23 MR. KNOX: Correct.

24 THE COURT: All right. Do you have any objections?

25 MR. DELANEY: To the charge, no. I do want to alert

1 your Honor, I think we've already filed a motion to reconsider 2 the issue of counsel fees. I think it's necessary for us to 3 win this case first.

4 THE COURT: I haven't seen it.

5 MR. DELANEY: If we have it, we'll file it today.

6 THE COURT: Did I rule on that already?

7 MR. DELANEY: You ruled as to --

8 MR. KNOX: It's already been reconsidered.

9 MR. DELANEY: We're going to ask you to look at it 10 again in light of the evidence that has come into the case.

11 But we have to win our case first, I realize that.

12 THE COURT: That's true. Finally, you'll notice
13 where I say to the jury something to the effect that if you
14 find that Central Transport is liable, you must find Logistics 15 is liable. No one disputes that as a matter of law, do they?
16 Hearing no disputes, I will take that as a no.

17 MR. DELANEY: Are you going to give them the written 18 charge?

19 THE COURT: Yes, it's my practice. Particularly,

20 even though this is a short case, it's complicated for them.

21 (Whereupon, at 9:11 a.m., the proceedings recessed 22 in Judge's Chambers; and at 9:28 a.m., reconvened in 23 Courtroom C.)

24 THE COURT: Ladies and gentlemen, it is now my duty 25 to tell you about the law that is to be applied to this case in

9

1 which you will be the finders of fact. You have heard all of 2 the arguments and all of the evidence, it's my function to 3 charge you on the law which you are required to consider and 4 which will govern your deliberations.

5 This is a dispute between Accu-Spec Electronic 6 Services, Inc., the plaintiff, and Central Transport 7 International, Inc., and Logistics Plus, Inc., as defendants.
8 In these instructions I will refer to the plaintiff as 9 Accu-Spec. I will refer to the defendants as Central Transport 10 and Logistics Plus.

11 In deciding these issues of fact, it is your duty, 12 ladies and gentlemen, to follow these instructions. In doing 13 so, you must take into consideration all of the instructions I

14 give you, and not pick out any particular instruction and 15 disregard another one. Your duty is to determine the facts
16 from the evidence that has been produced in open court. You 17 are to apply the facts as you find them to the law that I am 18 giving you, and neither sympathy nor prejudice should influence 19 you in any way. Our system of law does not permit jurors to be 20 governed by sympathy, prejudice or public opinion.

21 At the outset you should understand that I am 22 absolutely neutral in presenting these instructions to you. I 23 will not give you my opinion about any issue of fact to be 24 determined by you. Nothing in the way in which I give my 25 instructions to you is intended as an expression of my opinion

10

1 about any fact at issue in the case.

2 I will now instruct you on the substantive
3 principles of law that govern the plaintiff's claims in this 4 case.

5 In January of 2003, Accu-Spec contacted Logistics
6 Plus to arrange for a shipment of Accu-Spec's industrial X-ray 7 machine from Fremont, California to Accu-Spec's facility in

8 Erie, Pennsylvania. Logistics Plus did not physically 9 transport the industrial X-ray machine from California to 10 Pennsylvania, but made arrangements with a trucking company, 11 Central Transport, to physically move the equipment. Central 12 Transport is in the business of hauling freight in interstate 13 commerce.

14 Thus, in this transaction, Accu-Spec is considered
15 to be a shipper. Logistics Plus is considered to be a freight 16 forwarder. And Central Transport is considered to be a motor 17 carrier.

18 A law, adopted by the United States Congress, sets 19 forth certain rules and principles concerning the relationship 20 between shippers, freight forwarders and motor carriers. That 21 law establishes that a motor carrier such as Central Transport 22 may be held liable for the actual loss or injury to property
23 which it transports. That same law indicates that a freight 24 forwarder, such as Logistics Plus, may be held liable for the 25 actual loss or injury to property for which it arranges

1 transport. Under this law, the shipper, Accu-Spec, does not

2 have to prove that the motor carrier of the freight forwarder 3 acted in a careless or negligent manner in handling the 4 equipment.

5 In order for a shipper, such as Accu-Spec, to 6 recover damages from a motor carrier, such as Central 7 Transport, or a freight forwarder, such a Logistics Plus, the 8 shipper must establish certain facts by direct or 9 circumstantial evidence. Specifically, Accu-Spec, as the 10 shipper, must establish three things.

11 First, Accu-Spec, the shipper, must establish, by 12 direct or circumstantial evidence, that the equipment was given 13 to the motor carrier, Central Transport, in good condition.

14 Second, Accu-Spec, the shipper, must establish that 15 the equipment arrived in Erie, Pennsylvania either damaged or 16 destroyed.

17 And, third, Accu-Spec, the shipper, must establish 18 the amount of reasonable money damages which it incurred in 19 order to repair the industrial X-ray machine.

20 Now, if Accu-Spec, the shipper, establishes that the 21 equipment was given to Central Transport in good condition; 22 return from Central Transport in damaged condition; and the 23 amount of money damages which Accu-Spec incurred, the burden

24 then shifts to the motor carrier, Central Transport, or the 25 freight forwarder, Logistics Plus, to demonstrate that they are

12

1 not liable. The only means by which Central Transport or 2 Logistics Plus can avoid liability for damages is if they can 3 prove that the manner in which the X-ray equipment was packaged 4 was improper and that the packaging was the sole factor in 5 causing the damage.

6 If you find that Central Transport is liable, you
7 must also find that Logistics is liable, and you must find them 8 liable in the same amount, although, there will be only one 9 recovery.

10 I will now give you a few guidelines on how to 11 deliberate upon the evidence you have heard.

12 As I told you at the beginning of this case, the 13 evidence which you are to consider consists of the testimony of 14 the witnesses and the exhibits offered and received into 15 evidence. The proceedings during this trial have been governed 16 by rules of law, and we have had a number of conferences to 17 determine what evidence should be allowed to be submitted to 18 you.

19 From time to time it has been my duty to rule on 20 evidence to be submitted, and you should not concern yourselves 21 with the reasons for those rulings. You are not to consider 22 any testimony or any exhibit to which I have sustained an 23 objection, or any exhibit which may have been ordered stricken 24 from the record, or which has not been introduced into 25 evidence.

13

1 The attorneys have argued very ably and thoroughly, 2 and they have been well prepared, but their remarks, that is 3 what they have said to you, is not evidence. They have argued 4 to help you understand the facts and their respective theories
5 of the case, but their arguments, again, are not evidence. You 6 must consider as evidence only the testimony and the exhibits.
7 If you find that any argument, statement or remark of counsel 8 has no basis in the evidence, then you should disregard that 9 argument, statement or remark. Similarly, if you find that 10 anything I tell you about the facts is not based on the 11 evidence, you should disregard that, too, because you are the 12 finders of fact. It is up to me only to tell you what the law 13 is.

14 The next matter about which I will instruct you is 15 the applicable burden of proof. The burden of proof is a 16 concept which you must understand in order to give the case 17 proper consideration, because a verdict cannot be based on 18 speculation, guess or conjecture.

19 Now, in civil cases such as this one, the plaintiff 20 has the burden of proving those contentions that entitle him to 21 relief by a preponderance of the evidence. Thus, Accu-Spec 22 carries the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the 23 evidence, that the cargo was received by Central Transport in 24 good condition, that the cargo arrived damaged in Erie, Pa, and 25 the amount of the damage. If Accu-Spec is able to do so, the 14

1 burden then shifts to Central Transport or Logistics Plus to 2 demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that the X-ray 3 equipment was packaged improperly and that the packaging was 4 the sole factor in causing the damage.

5 The fair weight or preponderance of the evidence

6 means evidence which has more convincing force when it is 7 weighed against the evidence opposed to it so that the greater 8 probability of truth lies therein. If we were to visualize 9 evidence as something weighed on an ordinary balance scale, and 10 if the evidence admitted in support of the claim made by the 11 party having the burden of proof is more weighty in probative
12 value than the evidence offered in opposition so that it tips 13 the scales on the side of that party, then that party has 14 proved the claim by the fair weight or preponderance of the 15 evidence.

16 If, on the other hand, the evidence admitted in 17 opposition to the claim of the party having the burden of proof 18 equally balances the evidence produced in support of the claim, 19 it can be said that there has been a failure to carry the 20 burden of proof imposed by law.

21 Now, it's important to note here that we speak of 22 the quality of evidence, not necessarily its quantity. Also, 23 all of the evidence admitted in support of, and in opposition 24 to, a claim must be considered, and not just the evidence 25 offered by the party having the burden of proof. In short, the

1 test is not which side brings the greater number of witnesses
2 or presents the greater quantity of evidence, but which witness 3 or witnesses and which evidence you consider most worthy of 4 belief. Even the testimony of one witness may outweigh that of 5 many, if you have reason to believe his or her testimony in 6 preference to their testimony.

7 In deciding this case, members of the jury, you 8 should consider all of the evidence presented by the parties.
9 Consideration of all of the evidence, however, does not mean 10 that you must accept all of the evidence as true or accurate.
11 In this connection, the evidence in the case consists of the 12 sworn testimony of the witnesses, regardless of who may have 13 called them, all exhibits received into evidence, regardless of 14 who may have produced them; and all facts which have been 15 admitted or stipulated to by the parties.

16 While you may consider only the evidence in the case
17 in arriving at your findings of fact, you are permitted to draw 18 such reasonable inferences from the testimony and the exhibits 19 of counsel, as you feel are justified in light of common 20 experience. An inference is not a suspicion or guess. A

21 suspicion is a belief based on circumstances which do not 22 amount to proof. An inference, on the other hand, is a 23 reasoned logical decision to conclude that a disputed fact 24 exists on the basis of another fact that you know exists. In 25 other words, you may reach conclusions which reason and common

16

1 sense lead you to reach from the facts which have been 2 established by a preponderance of the evidence in the case.

3 There are times when different inferences may be 4 drawn from the facts, whether proved by direct or 5 circumstantial evidence. Plaintiff will ask you to draw one 6 set of inferences, while the defendants will ask you to 7 draw another. It is for you, and you alone, to decide what 8 inferences you will draw.

9 In deciding this case, you are required to pass on 10 the credibility of witnesses. Credibility simply means 11 believability. Your function is to decide what is believable, 12 who is believable and how much weight to give it. In doing 13 this, you use your common sense, your varied backgrounds and 14 experiences, the usual indicators of truth that you use in your 15 daily lives.

16 A witness's testimony depends on the witness's
17 observation and perception of what he or she testifies to. It 18 also depends on the witness's memory and what he or she 19 experienced at the time, and the witness's ability to create 20 that experience in court.

21 You may consider the degree of the witness's 22 intelligence, the demeanor and appearance of the witness, the 23 witness's frankness, his or her candor, the evasiveness or 24 responsiveness, as well as the reasonableness or 25 unreasonableness of the witness's testimony in light of all the 17

1 circumstances. You may also consider any interest or bias that 2 might lead a witness to exaggerate, understate or otherwise 3 color their testimony, such as a witness's interest in the 4 outcome of the case or a bias or prejudice that a witness might 5 have in favor of or against a party. Now, this is not to 6 suggest that the interest or bias of a witness would lead the 7 witness to tell you a falsehood or color his or her testimony 8 one way or the other, but bear these factors in mind in passing

9 on the credibility or believability of every witness.

10 I charge you that if you find that a witness has 11 lied to you in any material portion of his or her testimony, 12 you may disregard that witness's testimony in its entirety.
13 I say that may disregard that testimony, not that you must. If 14 you choose to disregard the testimony of any witness because 15 you believe that a witness has been untruthful with you, it 16 must have been untruthfulness in a material portion of that 17 witness's testimony. You must also be careful, though, that 18 the untrue part of the testimony was not a result of a mistake 19 or inadvertence, but was, rather, willful and stated with a 20 design or intent to deceive.

21 Regardless of whether a witness's testimony is 22 untruthful by design or inadvertence, however, you may reject 23 all or any portion of the testimony, as in the case of any 24 witness, if the testimony is not believable by you. On the 25 other hand, you may be convinced that, despite the falsity of a

1 part of the witness's testimony, he or she, in other parts, 2 testified truthfully.

3 You may find inconsistencies in the evidence, even 4 actual contradictions in the testimony of witnesses, although 5 it does not necessarily mean that any witness has been 6 willfully false. Poor memory is not uncommon. Sometimes a 7 witness forgets. Sometimes he or she remembers incorrectly.
8 It is also true that two persons witnessing the same incident 9 may see it or hear it differently. If different parts of the 10 testimony of any witness or witnesses appear to you to be 11 inconsistent, you should try to reconcile the conflicting 12 statements, whether of the same or different witnesses, and you 13 should do so if it can be done fairly and satisfactorily. If, 14 however, you find that there is a genuine and irreconcilable 15 conflict in the testimony, it is your function and your duty to 16 determine which, if any, of the contradictory statements you 17 will believe.

18 Let me just ask counsel at this point. There had 19 been a request for a charge on depositions as evidence, there 20 were no depositions in this case, is that right?

21 MR. COHEN: There were no depositions, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: All right. We'll excise that.

23 If you find that Accu-Spec has established its claim against 24 the defendants, you may consider the amount of money to award

25 Accu-Spec. Under the federal law which governs the 19

1 relationship between shippers, freight forwarders and motor 2 carriers, the amount of money to be awarded to the shipper is 3 calculated by the costs to repair the goods. The cost to 4 repair the goods can include the reasonable cost of inspecting 5 the equipment and of shipping the equipment to the place where 6 it was repaired, in this case England, if you find that 7 shipping the equipment to England was reasonable.

8 As I mentioned at the beginning of the case, I am
9 entirely neutral about its outcome. I do not want you to think 10 that anything I have said, any instruction that I have given 11 you, any ruling I may have made on the evidence or any 12 statement that I made either to you or to counsel, implies that 13 I have any position in this case at all, other than to give you 14 fairly the law that you are required to apply, and to rule 15 fairly and impartially on the evidence that has been submitted 16 to you. I have absolutely no interest in how this case 17 resolves itself, only in the procedure by which it is done.

18 As I told you before, it is for you, and you alone,

19 to determine the facts of the case and the credibility of each 20 of the witnesses. If your recollection of the testimony varies 21 with any statements that are inadvertently made by me or 22 counsel for any party in reviewing the testimony, you have to 23 be guided by your own memory and your recollection of the 24 testimony. You determine the facts from all of the testimony 25 that you have heard, and the other evidence which has been

20

1 received during the trial. Neither I nor anyone else may 2 infringe on your responsibility as the sole judges of the 3 facts. On the other hand, and of equal importance, you must 4 accept the rules of law as I give them to you and apply those 5 rules to the facts of the case.

6 I am now going to, in the last minute or so,
7 instruct you on your deliberations, what you are to do when you 8 retire to the jury room. First, the attitude and conduct of 9 the jury at the outset of the deliberations are matters of 10 considerable importance. When you retire to the jury room for 11 your deliberations, they should proceed in an orderly fashion.
12 The first order of business in the jury room will be to select

13 one of you to act as foreperson. You are free to select any 14 one of you to act in that capacity. The foreperson will 15 preside over your deliberations and will speak for you here in 16 court should that become necessary. One more thing about the 17 foreperson. The fact that somebody is a foreperson does not 18 mean that his or her vote is entitled to any greater weight 19 than the vote of any other juror.

20 In the course of your deliberations, if you should 21 find yourself in doubt concerning any part of my instructions 22 to you about the law, you may request further instructions or 23 clarification. In that event, you should transmit a note, 24 signed by the foreperson, to me through my courtroom deputy. I 25 will not communicate with any juror on any subject relating to 21

1 the merits of the case except in writing or orally here in 2 court with all counsel present. My deputy clerk will show you, 3 if you don't already know where it is, there is a button in 4 your jury room that rings into my chambers. And if you should 5 have a question or anything like that, write it on a piece of 6 paper, hit the button and somebody will come and get it.

7 You should not at any time reveal, even to me, how 8 you stand numerically until you have reached a verdict. Your 9 responsibility to reach a fair conclusion from the evidence and 10 the applicable law is an important one. Your verdict should be 11 reached only after careful and thorough deliberations during 12 which you should consult with each other and discuss the 13 evidence and reasonable inferences to be drawn from the 14 evidence freely and fairly in a sincere effort to arrive at a 15 just verdict.

16 It is your duty to consider the evidence with a view 17 toward reaching agreement on a verdict if you can do so without 18 violating your individual judgment or conscience. You must 19 decide the case for yourself, examining the issues in evidence 20 with candor and frankness, and with proper deference to and 21 with regard to the opinions of each other. Mature 22 consideration requires that you be willing to re-examine your 23 own views and to change your opinions if you're convinced that 24 your opinions lack merit or validity. On the other hand, while 25 you may maintain this flexibility, no juror is required to

1 surrender his or her honest conviction as to the weight or 2 effect of the evidence because another juror's opinion differs 3 from his or hers, or for the mere purpose of returning a 4 verdict.

5 The verdict must represent the considered judgment
6 of each juror. In order to return a verdict, it is necessary 7 that each juror agree thereto. Your verdict, therefore, must 8 be unanimous.

9 Keep in mind, then, in conclusion, the dispute
10 between the parties in this case is for them a most serious 11 matter. They and the court rely on you to give full and 12 conscientious deliberation and consideration to the issues and 13 evidence before you. You should not allow prejudice or 14 sympathy to influence your deliberations. You should not be 15 influenced by anything other than the law and the evidence in 16 the case. All of the parties stand equal before this court, 17 and each is entitled to the same fair and impartial treatment 18 at your hands.

19 Now, couple of other quick notes. When you return 20 to the jury room, you are going to be given something styled 21 Interrogatories To The Jury. It is self-explanatory, it has

22 various questions that you're going to have to answer. Once 23 you have reached a verdict, whatever the verdict may be, it is 24 necessary that on the back page of the verdict form it's been 25 signed by the foreperson and each of the jurors also has to

23

1 sign. And you'll note that there's a line for the date, it
2 should be dated as well. The other thing I'm going to send out 3 to you, as soon as we make the slight excision from the written 4 charge I just gave you, I'm going to give you a couple copies 5 of this written charge. I find that's helpful, people are 6 scribbling away trying to write it all done and that becomes 7 somewhat difficult at times. I'm going to stay on the bench 8 just for a second, but you folks are now free to go back in the 9 jury room. But before you do, let me administer the oath here 10 to my Deputy Clerk.

11 (Whereupon, the Deputy Clerk was sworn.)

12 THE COURT: You can take them back, we'll get the 13 exhibits and whatnot back to you.

14 (Whereupon, at 9:50 a.m., the Jury was excused to 15 begin their deliberations.)

16 (In Judge's Chambers at 1:25 p.m.)

17 THE COURT: I received the following question from

18 the jury, signed by the foreperson, Wendy Spaeder. "Given the

19 instructions on page four, top sentence 'If you find that

20 Central Transport is liable, you must also find that Logistics

21 is liable, and you must find them liable in the same amount,

22 although there will be only one recovery'." Then a question.

23 "Does the amount on question six and seven of the jury

24 questions have to be the same dollar amount?" The answer to 25 that is yes. And that is what I propose to tell them.

24

1 (Whereupon, at 1:26 p.m., proceedings recessed in

2 Judge's Chambers; and reconvened in Courtroom C as follows:)

3 THE COURT: Let me see counsel at side bar.

4 (At side bar on the record.)

5 THE COURT: It occurred to me, without knowing for

6 sure, that the jury might have been trying to ask -- for

7 instance, let's assume they found damages in the amount of 8 $1,100, if it would be split between the two. I propose to 9 tell them there is no splitting of damages, whatever the amount

10 of damages is, that amount of damages should be entered for 11 both. Does anybody have a problem with that?

12 MR. COHEN: What if you have two amounts of damages

13 in excess of the recovery.

14 THE COURT: Tune with me, Mr. Cohen, all right. Are

15 you suggesting that, for instance, if the jury found damages in 16 the amount of $100 total damages, the amount of $100, that they

17 would apportion those damages, for instance, 50-50 between 18 Central Transport and Logistics?

19 MR. COHEN: Let me take a look at this. This says

20 "you must find them liable in the same amount."

21 THE COURT: So I'm inclined, I want to give

22 everybody the opportunity, is it your position that on some

23 legal basis there should be some type of apportionment of 24 damages between the two of you?

25 MR. COHEN: No, I misread your charge.

25

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 (End of discussion at side bar.)

3 THE COURT: I received the following question from

4 the jury. "Given the instructions on page four, top sentence

5 'if you find that CT,' in other words, Central Transport, 'is

6 liable, you must also find that Logistics is liable, and you

7 must find them liable in the same amount, although they will be

8 only one recovery.' Does the amount on question six and seven

9 of the jury questions have to be the same dollar amount?"

10 The answer is yes. I'm not sure if you were asking me

11 something more than that, but the answer is yes. Does that 12 answer your question?

13 THE FOREPERSON: Yes.

14 THE COURT: Very good.

15 (Whereupon, at 1:30 p.m., the proceedings recessed;

16 and at 2:20 p.m., reconvened with the Jury's verdict.)

17 THE COURT: I understand you've reached a verdict,

18 is that right?

19 THE FOREPERSON: Yes.

20 THE COURT: Would you please retrieve the verdict

21 form. The verdict seems to be in order, you can publish it.

22 DEPUTY CLERK: "Did Defendant Central Transport

23 receive the cargo in good condition? Yes."

24 Was the cargo improperly packaged by Accu-Spec? No.

25 THE COURT: Say the question that you're doing

1 first. Start that all over again.

2 DEPUTY CLERK: "Question 1. Did Defendant Central 3 Transport receive the cargo in good condition? Yes.

4 Question 2. Was the cargo improperly packaged by 5 Accu-Spec? No.

6 Question 4. Was it reasonable for the plaintiff, 7 after discovering that the cargo was damaged, to have the 8 damage inspected by a representative of the manufacturer from 9 England? No.

10 Question 5. Was it reasonable for the plaintiff,
11 after discovering that the cargo was damaged, to have the cargo 12 shipped to England to be repaired? Yes.

13 Question 6. What amount, if any, is plaintiff
14 entitled to recover from Central Transport? $21,000.

15 Question 7. What amount, if any, is plaintiff
16 entitled to recover from Logistics Plus? $21,000."

17 Signed by the foreperson, Wendy L. Spaeder, 18 10-20-05, and the seven other jurors.

19 MR. DELANEY: May we have a side bar?

20 THE COURT: Yes.

21 (At side bar on the record.)

22 MR. DELANEY: The answers to interrogatories 23 indicate clearly they went with a different amount than the 24 expense incurred. I have a fear that what they have done here 25 is taken a $42,000 verdict and divided it in two. And so I

27

1 would ask that you poll the jury and I would ask that you
2 simply ask them is this their verdict, that you want Accu-Spec
3 to collect a total of $21,000 -- which clarifies they're not 4 apportioning the damages.

5 THE COURT: Tell me again what you propose that I do 6 by way of polling this jury?

7 MR. DELANEY: I propose that you poll the jury by 8 simply asking is it your verdict that Accu-Spec may collect a 9 total of $21,000 for damages.

10 MR. COHEN: I strongly object to that request. The 11 jury questionnaire was discussed among ourselves and agreed to.
12 Everyone came to the same conclusion on that question. It 13 should stand.

14 MR. DELANEY: I think I have the right to poll the 15 jury. I don't think that's misquoting it, it's clearly within 16 your discretion.

17 THE COURT: You always have the right to poll the 18 jury. Typically what a jury is asked is, was the verdict as 19 read your verdict. They all say yes.

20 MR. DELANEY: All I'm asking is you clarify the 21 verdict, that the total number to be collected by Accu-Spec is 22 $21,000.

23 THE COURT: Let me see the charge -- does someone 24 have a copy of the charge?

25 MR. DELANEY: I do. I'm sorry, that's the old one.

28

1 THE COURT: Just where in the charge do I talk about 2 this?

3 MR. DELANEY: It had been in your most recent charge
4 at the top of page four. "If you find that Central Transport 5 is liable, you must also find that Logistics is liable, and you 6 must find them liable in the same amount, although there will 7 be only one recovery."

8 THE COURT: What was the cost incurred in bringing 9 this back from England?

10 MR. DELANEY: I want to say roughly -- it was about 11 $23,000.

12 THE COURT: What was your total claim?

13 MR. DELANEY: $47,521.

14 THE COURT: Even if you deduct that, it doesn't get 15 you to 41?

16 MR. DELANEY: Right. Let me just say this. What 17 harm does it do to ask them is this your verdict that the 18 plaintiff may collect a total of $21,000, doesn't do any harm.
19 If that's their verdict, they're going to say yes.

20 THE COURT: I'm thinking this through. I understand 21 your objection. I'm going to take a short break and take a 22 look at the law on this. My suspicion is, although it's just a 23 suspicion, that they assumed you would recover $21,000 from one 24 and $21,000 from the other. They cut the baby, half of it. I
25 don't know that for a fact. I'm also sensitive to Mr. Cohen's

1 point. All right, I'm going to take a look at this.

2 (End of discussion at side bar.)

3 THE COURT: Members of the jury, we have to convene 4 and chat a little bit about this verdict form. So at the risk
5 of you folks going on an active rebellion, I'm going to ask you 6 to go back in the jury room for just a few minutes and we'll 7 get you right back out here.

8 (Whereupon, at 2:28 p.m., proceedings recessed in 9 Courtroom C; and at 2:55 p.m., reconvened in Judge's Chambers.)

10 THE COURT: Can I see your itemized damages. Over 11 here on defendants side, there was no stipulation to any of 12 these, was there?

13 MR. COHEN: No.

14 MR. DELANEY: There was certainly comments that 15 there was no question of the reasonableness of the repair. But 16 there was certainly a question about the reasonableness of it 17 going to the UK.

18 MR. COHEN: There was no stipulation. That's 19 correct, there was a reasonableness issue raised with respect 20 to the England issues.

21 THE COURT: You just didn't argue reasonableness
22 with respect to any of the other items really?

23 MR. COHEN: That's correct.

24 THE COURT: Rule 49 talks about the court may, in 25 cases where there's an inconsistent verdict, a trial judge has

30

1 the discretion to resubmit issues to the jury with a request 2 for clarification under 49(b). The court may either return a 3 jury for further consideration of its answers to 4 interrogatories or order a new trial. That's where there's 5 something patently inconsistent. That isn't here.

6 MR. DELANEY: Let me say, judge, I'm not asking to 7 return the jury or give these new instructions. I'm asking 8 they be polled to determine if this is your verdict, that 9 Accu-Spec may only recover a total of $21,000. That's all I'm 10 asking. If they say yes, we're all going home. If one of them
11 says no, I understood it to be if they say no, then we need 12 clarification from them. But all I'm asking is that there be a 13 poll of the jury, that the jury be asked that question, is this 14 your verdict that Accu-Spec may collect a total of $21,000.

15 MR. REILLY: I think clearly the jury has spoken, 16 that they've been given adequate instruction, they've been 17 agreed to by all parties.

18 THE COURT: Before you go on, you don't even appear 19 of record. But I'm happy to hear what you have to say, all I 20 want you to do is indicate for the court reporter, when 21 somebody is reading this thing, they'll know who you are?

22 MR. REILLY: Michael Reilly, corporate counsel for 23 Logistics Plus.

24 THE COURT: Go ahead, Mr. Reilly.

25 MR. REILLY: This jury has spoken. The verdict is 31

1 in. It has been accepted by the judge. We're ready to go 2 home.

3 THE COURT: Nothing has been accepted by the judge 4 yet, that's why we're here. I may well do that ultimately.
5 Look it, two points. Even if you subtract the inspection by 6 Mr. Dunn of $2,150.82, it doesn't get you to where the jury is.

7 MR. DELANEY: Right.

8 THE COURT: The harsh reality, legal reality is that 9 even in the face of damages that aren't actively contested 10 unless they're stipulated to, the jury is always free to sit

11 back and make their conclusion whether something is reasonable.

12 MR. DELANEY: I'm not even there. All I'm asking 13 for you to do is poll the jury. And if the jurors say yes, 14 that's our verdict, then we'll go back and make our assessment 15 of what we do next.

16 MR. KNOX: The instructions, I think the key phrase
17 in there is there can only be one recovery. That clearly 18 communicates to the jury what Mr. Delaney's question is asking.

19 MR. COHEN: Your Honor, if I may. Your Honor, 20 you've just cited to Rule 49. There's no provision in that 21 rule consistent with the facts to make any additional 22 commentary with the jury. Counsel for the plaintiff sat here 23 and approved this form. He liked this form. Now the form does 24 not suit him, he wants it changed. He wants more questions.
25 He wants different things to happen. That's the problem here.

32

1 This can't be changed. This was agreed to by counsel. This 2 was plain English, this was done. And this is a final 3 decision, there's no federal rules of civil procedure to change 4 this.

5 MR. DELANEY: Judge, I'm not asking you to change

6 it, I'm not asking you to invoke Rule 49. I'm asking to have

7 the jury polled. If not by rule, by custom, I have the right

8 to have the jury polled.

9 THE COURT: You do have that right.

10 MR. DELANEY: We had a question by the jury about 11 the issue of how they should address questions six and seven.

12 THE COURT: Which I answered yes.

13 MR. DELANEY: And we had a discussion at side bar,

14 in which the court actually came up with an example. If you 15 decide the value as $100, put $100 on both lines.

16 THE COURT: Unfortunately, the court did not have

17 the foresight to extend that to share that example with the 18 jury panel.

19 MR. DELANEY: All I'm asking is that you poll the 20 jury and in light of all those circumstances and ask the 21 question. That's all I'm asking.

22 THE COURT: The question one last time would be 23 what?

24 MR. DELANEY: Is this your verdict.

25 THE COURT: They're going to say yes.

1 MR. DELANEY: Or is it your verdict that Accu-Spec
2 may collect a total of $21,000. Ask them that question. I do 3 have the right to have the jury polled.

4 MR. COHEN: Your Honor was correct the first time,
5 is this your verdict. You can't go and try to change this 6 conclusion now that you don't like the response when you agreed 7 to it on behalf of your clients.

8 MR. DELANEY: If I could make one point. I'm not 9 trying to change it. I'm just asking for the jury to be 10 polled.

11 THE COURT: Is it fair to say that you're asking for 12 clarification from the jury, that's really what you're asking, 13 anyway you slice it?

14 MR. DELANEY: I'm not asking for clarification if 15 everyone in this room, if others in this room believe that this 16 is the verdict, a total of $21,000. I'm asking them to confirm 17 that they understand and that this is your verdict, to confirm 18 that they understood your last instruction.

19 THE COURT: This is a real slippery slope for me to 20 get onto. The verdict is what the verdict is. It would be I

21 would be setting a bad precedent to do this. They're often 22 gray areas. As far as I'm concerned, I'm going to let you poll
23 the jury. But the only question is going to be was the verdict 24 as read your verdict. I'm not reluctantly, but I think 25 correctly, going to peel the onion back on this one. You'll

34

1 have an opportunity, as painful as it may be, to ask these 2 people after the fact, if you choose to do so, what they were 3 thinking. But I think in this instance that Mr. Cohen and Mr.
4 Knox's point is well-taken. All right. With respect to the 5 questioning, I'm going to do it just to move it along.

6 (Proceedings recessed at 3:04 p.m., in Judge's 7 Chambers; and reconvened at 3:07 p.m., in Courtroom C.)

8 THE COURT: Mr. Delaney, did you have a request?

9 MR. DELANEY: I do, your Honor, that the jury be 10 polled.

11 THE COURT: All right. I'm going to start right 12 here with juror number one and move this way. Juror number 13 one, would you please stand. Is the verdict as previously read 14 your verdict?

15 JUROR NO. 1: Yes.

16 THE COURT: Juror number two. Is the verdict as 17 previously read your verdict?

18 JUROR NO. 2: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Juror number three. Is the verdict as 20 previously read your verdict?

21 JUROR NO. 3: Yes.

22 THE COURT: Juror number four. Is the previously 23 read verdict your verdict?

24 JUROR NO. 4: Yes.

25 THE COURT: Juror number five. Is the verdict as 35

1 previously read your verdict?

2 JUROR NO. 5: Yes, it is.

3 THE COURT: Similarly, juror number six. Is the 4 verdict as previously read your verdict?

5 JUROR NO. 6: Yes, it is.

6 THE COURT: Juror number seven. Is the verdict as 7 previously read your verdict?

8 JUROR NO. 7: Yes, sir.

9 THE COURT: And, finally, juror number eight. Is 10 the verdict as previously read your verdict?

11 JUROR NO. 8: Yes.

12 THE COURT: Members of the jury, before I dismiss

13 you, let me thank you for your service here. During the two or

14 three days you've been down at the federal courthouse you've

15 seen all kinds of folks. You've seen some people who work in 16 the Clerk's Office, you've seen some security personnel,

17 probably maintenance people, some of my staff. Obviously, the 18 judge. But really for all intents and purposes when it comes

19 to doing what we do, there is nobody more important than you

20 folks, that is the jurors. Because if we didn't have jurors,

21 this whole jury system, which we are so proud of, would come

22 grinding to a halt. Your service is very important. When you

23 go back in the jury room, I'm going to get off the bench, I

24 just want to come in and chat with you just briefly. And then

25 we'll send you on your way. And as far as I'm concerned, these

36

1 proceedings are now adjourned.

2

3 (Whereupon, at 3:10 p.m., the Jury Trial proceedings 4 were concluded.)
